PRESS RELEASE

ISS Recommends PartnerRe Shareholders Vote AGAINST AXIS Transaction in Light of the Availability of EXOR's Superior $140.50 Per Share All-Cash Binding Offer

ISS Acknowledges the Amalgamation with AXIS Has Meaningful Execution Risk

EXOR Urges Shareholders to Vote AGAINST AXIS Transaction at Shareholder Meeting Scheduled for August 7th

EXOR S.p.A. ("EXOR"; EXO.IM), one of Europe's leading listed investment companies and the largest shareholder of PartnerRe Ltd. ("PartnerRe"; NYSE:PRE), welcomes today's recommendation from Institutional Shareholder Services Inc. ("ISS"), following its detailed review of the transaction, that PartnerRe shareholders vote AGAINST the three proposals related to the AXIS transaction at the PartnerRe Special General Meeting ("SGM") to be held on August 7, 2015. ISS is the leading independent provider of recommendations on corporate governance and voting issues for institutional investors.

In its recommendation to vote AGAINST the PartnerRe – AXIS amalgamation, ISS said:

- "A vote AGAINST the proposed amalgamation with AXIS is warranted in light of the availability of a superior and relatively certain all-cash offer from a competing bidder...."
- "[The] same uncertainty over market dynamics, overlaid with the post-merger execution challenges the combined company will face, may well suggest that the competing EXOR cash bid, which gives shareholders both immediately-superior value and greater certainty of value, is a still-more prudent alternative."
- "...there is nothing about the performance of either company [PartnerRe and AXIS] to date which suggests that simply combining the two will drive a 30% increase in the [price/tangible book value] multiple the market will assign...."
- "AXIS's stock price appears to have been affected by investors' anticipation of events other than the consummation of this transaction—particularly the anticipation of receiving approximately $3 per share in termination fees, and the prospect that AXIS itself might be bought at a premium. As a consequence, any direct calculation of the 'market value' of the consideration, if it relies on AXIS share prices, is unreliable."
- "The EXOR offer, by contrast, represents an unassailable and healthy 23.1% premium to PRE's unaffected price on Jan. 23..."

- “Regulatory reviews appear unlikely to derail EXOR's bid, given the latter's ample resources, prior ownership of an insurance business, significant stake in but lack of business overlap with PartnerRe, and the fact that - unlike AXIS - its proposed transaction is unlikely to result in significant shrinkage of PartnerRe employees through merger ‘efficiencies’.”
- “Many of PartnerRe's criticisms of EXOR's bid, moreover, are at best small beer... For all of its creativity, the board's criticism of the EXOR offer does not appear substantiated.”
- “Still more disturbingly, the fact that it took a competing bidder to get the PartnerRe board to negotiate greater value for its own shareholders raises doubts about the efficacy of the entire negotiation process which led to the merger agreement with AXIS in the first place.”

EXOR reminds PartnerRe shareholders that voting AGAINST the AXIS transaction at the SGM on August 7th is a critical step to enable PartnerRe to accept EXOR’s fully-financed, all-cash superior offer, delivering Common Shareholders the certainty of $140.50 per share in cash and providing Preferred Shareholders with a conservative credit profile and significantly enhanced terms.

In line with the ISS recommendation, EXOR therefore also urges PartnerRe Common and Preferred Shareholders to vote the GOLD proxy card AGAINST all three proposals related to the AXIS transaction and asks shareholders not to sign or return any WHITE proxy cards they receive from PartnerRe. Shareholders who have already returned a WHITE proxy card, can change their vote by simply returning the GOLD proxy card.
